

Adolfo Argüello Vives is a Mexican citizen based in Washington D.C. since 2016. He is an independent evaluator and serves as the Finance Chair in ACEVAL Mexico Executive Board (2019-2021). He is a certified evaluator by the Center of Project Preparation and Evaluation (CEPEP) and ITAM, holds an Evaluation Diploma from CIDE and CLEAR LATAM, an Evaluation Diploma from UN-ILPES, and completed the IPDET training in 2013 with the CLEAR LATAM Scholarship. He holds an Executive Certificate in Public Private Partnerships from the Kennedy School of Government, and a Diploma in Public Private Partnerships from IADB-Tec de Monterrey.

As President of the Georgetown ILG Alumni Network (2018-2020), he was an Innovation in Government Mentor at the Global Competitiveness Leadership (GCL) Program, and the representative at the GCL Advisory Committee. He is currently the Latin America Regional Chair at the Students and Alumni Advisory Council of the Global Masters in Development Practice Secretariat hosted by the Earth Institute at Columbia University.

He was the Evaluation Officer of the consortium that designed the Infrastructure Plan for a Special Economic Zone (SEZ) in the south of Mexico. In his work, Adolfo draws on considerable experience as a consultant for large infrastructure projects, with a particular focus on development effectiveness and fostering competitiveness. He served as the Chief Planning Officer at the Ministry of Tourism in Chiapas, Mexico.

Adolfo holds a bachelor's degree in International Business and Management from Tecnológico de Monterrey, a master's degree in Public Policy from King's College London where he was a Chevening scholar, and a master's degree in development practice at Sciences Po where he was a Joint-Japan World Bank Group scholar.

Adolfo is fluent in Spanish (mother tongue), and in English. He has lived in Ireland, Canada, Japan, France, United Kingdom, Germany, Hong Kong, and Mexico.